

To the FCC: I urge you to support my right to have expanded services from XM. Let the other stations improve their programming the way XM has. I pay for XM because it is worth it and offers a variety and quality not typically available on other stations. It is a free democracy. We do not need to offer them any protection. Our country was built on providing healthy competition so that we the consumer have choices and rights that are at the very core of our first ammendment rights.

I urbge you to reject the NAB's petition 04-160 and let us together improve the radio industry rather than give them the easy way out. Perhaps, they will be forced to improve their content -- after all that is what consumers want.

Sincerely,

Joseph R. Aiello
